The Chances Are 10 to 1 that the Next Olympic Games, in 1916, Will Not Be Held in Berlin.

Copyright, 1916, by The Press Publishing Co. (The New York Evening World.)

It is now talk of holding the next Olympic Games in either Sweden or America in 1916, instead of in Berlin.

The chances are 10 to 1 that the game will not be held in Berlin, no matter how the present war comes out. The German people, and the European people in general, will not have any money to spend on athletic amusements for many years to come.

And even if there were no financial troubles it isn't likely that the young men of the European nations can meet in friendly competition for many years. To-day they are shooting each other down in the hatred that comes with the fear that their countries may be overwhelmed and ruined.

Suppose the Germans held the Olympic Games, "according to the original plans. America might send a team, having been entirely neutral during war time, and Sweden and Norway.

But would France send athletes to aid a German athletic celebration?

Would England or Russia? How about the Finns, who have many of Europe's greatest athletes and who are now, or soon will be, in the thick of the fighting, forced in by Russia against their will? What Irish athletes would go to Germany, when thousands of Irishmen have just died fighting before the German trenches?

And Italy and Greece, forced to mobilize their armies because of hostile demonstrations brought on by the war all around them—will they care to send their athletes to the country they regard as responsible for the world's trouble?

If the Olympic Games are held in Berlin few countries will take part. It's a pity, for during the past ten years many have had visions of the time when the countries of Europe should be drawn into more friendly relations by these same Olympic meets, where the young men, the athletes of the various states meet on a friendly field, in a friendly competition, and learn that all countries produce men worth knowing and having as friends.

The next Olympic games might be held here in America, and perhaps a number of countries would send their teams here to meet on strictly neutral ground. If not, we have plenty of good men to make an interesting meet and break a few of the records.

MILBURN SAYLOR must be a greatly improved fighting man, judging by his win over Joe Shugrue in Australia. Young Shugrue was one of the cleverest and gamiest lightweight in the Eastern States, and every one expected to see him make a great reputation in the Antipodes.

"Going to Australia to clean up," was a soft snap for American fighters a couple of years ago, when there were only English and Australians to meet. But now Australia is full of American boxers, and the Americans have to fight it out between themselves, while the Australians sit back and look on and enjoy the spectacle. No snap about that.

LACE CROSS is riding on the crest of the wave of popularity in California. His hammering the daylight out of Mexican Joe Rivers didn't hurt him in the least with the California fans, for somehow or other Rivers didn't have many enthusiastic followers. The trouble with Rivers, it seems, is that Californians don't give him credit for being the greatest man in the world. In his desperate and very close fights with Champion Ad Wolgast and champion Willie Ritchie the Mexican lightweight had chances to win. In fact there were times in each scrap when he looked a ten to one shot. And each time he lost. Perhaps it was just his hard luck to run into a punch in each fight, that robbed him of his chance at the finish, and that the spectators didn't see it that way, and some charged him with "quitting."

If Rivers has any "yellow streak," he hasn't shown it by picking easy work, for he has always been ready to fight the toughest of them, and he usually makes a fast, aggressive fight. He usually crosses out a 1 to 2 favorite. Cross, the outsider, given no chance in the dope sheets, carried the fight to Rivers and got the decision by the finish, and now Southern Californians want to have Leachie matched against Willie Ritchie for the championship of America. Cross will take a chance with Ritchie or any one else used to taking chances.

Fred Clarke is making a desperate effort to get into the first division and will give the Bostonians just as hard a fight as he has given the Champions, so the latter can take comfort in the fact that Stallings and his crew are going to have a hard row to hoe the latter part of the week, while the Champions will be disposing themselves at the Polo Grounds a couple of weeks ago. CALDWELL WELCOME BACK, BUT HE MUST PAY FINE OF $300

Manager Chance Says Star Pitcher Must Stand Punishment for Breaking Rules.

Frank Chance says he is not the least concerned about the whereabouts of Ray Caldwell. But of one thing the public may rest assured—Caldwell will either pay the fine of $300 or he won't play ball again.

"They can't even take him in the Federal League," said Chance to-day, "because his contract contains no ten-day clause."

"But there will be no fines remitted," he repeated with emphasis, "and if there had not been any remitted earlier in the season he wouldn't have been much better off. I know that the fines were remitted by officials of the club, but it will not occur again."

"I do not believe Caldwell is in town, because his wife called up the club last night asking for information about him. The clubhouse boys says she told him that she was going home, and if she did not hear from her husband she would go to Buffalo, where she thinks he is. Personally I don't care where he is. Unless he can be made to respect discipline the club is better off without him."

It was reported early in the day that Caldwell was in New York last night and said he was ready to join the Highlanders if the club would remit a fine of $300.

LADY BARBARY AT 10 TO 1 FIRST IN FEATURE RACE

R. F. Carman's Filly Caused Big Upset in Adirondack Handicap at Spa.

SARATOGA RACE TRACK, N. Y., Aug. 19.—R. F. Carman's Lady Barbary proved the upset of the day in the $2,500 Adirondack Handicap here this afternoon by closing like a black streak in the final sixteenth and getting up to win by a neck from the added starter, Trial by Jury.

One-eyed Luke was third along the backstretch, quitting badly after leading all the way to the final eighth. James Butler's High Noon, another added starter and favorite in the betting, was fourth, but there was some excuse for him because he was on his hind legs when the barrier lifted.

Lady Barbary and Razanbro broke in front, but Luke soon took the lead from them and went along to the stretch three lengths to the good. After they had rounded the far turn Davies sent Trial by Jury into second place and he chased Luke until they were well into the stretch. Here Luke began to hang out distress signals, and Trial by Jury soon had him beaten. The Cassatt colt seemed to be coming on in win easily then, but suddenly Lady Barbary got into the running. She passed Luke easily and set sail for Trial by Jury. She caught him in the closing strides.

Fourth were scratched from the High-weight Handicap, which started the day's sport, and Sprite was left even money favorite. She won in handy fashion after running back off the pace until past the far turn. Then she moved up fast, and when the turn for home was reached she had ranged alongside of Istroise, who had opened up a big gap from the start. Holiday too moved up strong, and when the field was straightened for the run home it became a three-horse affair between Sprite, Holiday and Istroise. Sprite finally went on to win by a length and Holiday bumped his way through on the rail to beat out Istroise half length.

Weldship stood everything off, but every now and then he gave his backers the shivers by going sideways at the hedges. Leumas nearly caught Weldship several times the last time around, but Bryant shook up his mount continually, and only the hardest kind of riding kept him in front. Leumas was a creditable second at the end in front of Meadow Lark, who trailed the field all the way. Gold Piece when third fell at the last jump, and Broseau unseated his rider at the same place.

SARGENT SCORED 71 IN EARLY ROUND OF OPEN GOLF TOURNEY

Professional of Chevy Chase Club in Good Form—Evans Misses Easy Putts.

CHICAGO, Aug. 19.—Although George Sargent of Chevy Chase Club, Washington, D. C., with a good 71 bettered yesterday's scores in the elimination rounds of the national open golf tournament at Midlothian, scores in general were higher to-day than yesterday when 32 players qualified for the 72-hole finals on Thursday and Friday.

Charles Evans Jr., Western amateur champion, was off with his approaches. He took 79 for the first round, missing several easy putts.

J. J. McDermott of Atlantic City, American born professional who won the open title in 1911 and 1912, took 77 for the first round, taking 40 for the first half.

L. Jacoby, an amateur of Dallas, made a 77 in the morning. Jack Jolly of Newark scored 79 and William Kidd of Algonquin took 77. Fred McLeod of Washington, D. C., required 76 for the forenoon round, while Arthur Smith of Arlington scored 75 and Jack Hutchinson of Allegheny 77. W. C. Shee of Memphis had 79 and Herbert Strong of Inwood, who played with Evans, was off his game to the extent of 84.

L. Teiler of Canoe Brook had a fair 76, while Jack Neville, Pacific coast champion, his partner, took 78. R. G. MacDonald of Buffalo tied Sargent's best score for nine holes with 25. MacDonald had a total of 75.

slow, the third horse. FIFTH RACE. Magnet, a good thing, won the fifth like a good one. Laying off the pace of San Vago and Frederick L. to the stretch he came away easily when his Jockey Taylor was ready. There was a great battle through the final eighth for the place and the show position, Star Gaze under a humping McCahay ride outgaming San Vago in the closing strides. Flying Fairy was a big disappointment. She was in a bad position hemmed in on the rail in the run through the back stretch, and when she reached the home turn wouldn't extend herself any more. Davies eased her up at the end.

M'LOUGHLIN WINS N. Y. CHAMPIONSHIP FROM R. L. MURRAY

Champion Easily Takes Three Sets From His Fellow Californian.

Maurice E. McLoughlin of California, whose defeat of Brookes and Wilding in the Davis Cup matches, stamped him as the greatest tennis player in the world, this afternoon added the New York State Championship to his list by defeating R. Lindley Murray, also of California, in three straight sets on the courts of the Crescent Athletic Club in Bay Ridge.

The scores were 6-1, 6-3, 6-4. Thirty-five hundred people saw the matches from the club grounds, while several hundred others, who could not enter, peered through the hedges from Eighty-fourth street.

The result of the match was never in doubt. In the first set, McLoughlin, playing masterful tennis, simply smothered his opponent, giving him but one game. Murray, palpably nervous, braced a bit in the second match, which, however, he lost to the champion, six to three. In the final set Murray managed to get four games.

Both players were visibly affected by the heat and neither appeared strong at the finish.

The match was to have been played two weeks ago but was postponed until to-day in order that McLoughlin might be fresh for the Davis Cup matches.
